A PROMPT DECISION.

RECEIVER OF THE A., M. & O. RAILROAD COMPANY TO BE APPOINTED.

ARGUMENTS OF JUDGE SHIPMAN AND MR. BOCOCK BEFORE THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT-THE SOLAR SYSTEM SAFE-PROVISION FOR PAYMENT OF LA-BORERS' WAGES-NOTES ENDORSED BY GENERAL MAHONE AND DIRECTORS VARIOUS CITIES AND BONDHOLDERS respectively; AGAINST THE CHANGE-VIEWS OF THE COURT: A RECEIVER NECESSARY-NOMI-NEES FOR THE PLACE-THE APPOINT-MENT TO BE MADE AT 10 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING.

The United States Circuit Court, Judges Bond and Hughes presiding, resumed its session at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Hon. Thomas S. Bocock, on behalf of the defendants, argued that the company is not insolvent, and that the interference of the court is not demanded by any interest. He referred to a letter written to the British ing persons to creet framed buildings in the bondholders only a few years ago by Mr. Collinson, assuring them that their security M. Gill, dwellings, 3310 and 3312, east of son Mr. Bocock pointed out gross errors, Gillie's creek; John A. PRAISE OF GENERAL MAHONE.

He read to the Court extracts from a letter written by Collinson April 13, 1875, to response to a "Disappointed Bondholder," pany was doing its best to meet its obligasaying in reference to General Mahone's a distinguished general, politician, and a disorganization of the company be avoided. man of business, such a president as Genemust be liberally paid; and without the services of such a person to manage the affairs George C. Major Stringfellow showed that Collinson had advertised the loan as a $6,000,000 loan. Mr. Bocock argued that at first it was contemplated to reserve $3,500,000 to build the having been ascertained that that would not of her cities and of this great line. JUDGE SHIPMAN'S REJOINDER. Judge Shipman defended Mr. Collinson from the forensic assault and battery made upon him, particularly by Judge Robertson, and claimed that Collinson's conduct had been in all respects fair and honorable. Collinson was not "the trusted agent of the company" in the sense alleged, and had in no wise proved unfaithful.

The bonds of the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio were, Judge Shipman represented, purchased by Collinson. He acted as middleman, and was in communication with and was not the agent of the company, exfor defaulted interest, &c. He further main-The Chair appointed Messrs. NOTES ENDORSED BY GENERAL MAHONE. Mr. Bocock asserted that when this case was last adjourned it was well known that these notes were becoming due and had to be paid. It was then understood from the prayer in the bill that the laborers were to be provided for. Judge Robertson said these payments of notes, many of them secured by collaterals, were made with the approval, even by the desire of the trustees. Up to within a few days the bill proposed that the laborers should be amply provided for by the receiver. There then appeared to be no danger to the laborers, while the notes upon which the president and directors were personally endorsers were of urgent character.

He was glad to hear that Judge Shipmar did not now mean to oppose the payment of the laborers' wages, but to leave it an open question.

Judge Shipman did not mean to criticise the company for not paying the laborers with the money which had been used in the reduction of the floating debt, but for their for hereafter a rigid examination of General Mahone's management. He held that the

A RECEIVER TO BE APPOINTED. After the judges resumed the bench Judge Hughes said: The Court has had but a short time to consider the very able arguments of the counsel who have spoken in the cause, and therefore has had no time to prepare a written opinion on the subject, which would embrace a discussion of the views presented on either side. But we have come to the conclusion that in the interest of all parties a receiver ought to be appointed. While the Court always feels great reluctance in taking the property of a company out of its control, it does so the more in the present case because of the fears which are said to be entertained lest the policy of the State in preserving this railroad as a continuous unbroken line of transportation may be endangered. Yet, as the receiver is but the hand of the structions to that officer to preserve the interests of all parties concerned and to see that the creditors are protected, while at the same time taking care that the objects of the State in establishing the road are secured.

The Court will endeavor to secure these and in any final decree which it may make

MANCHESTER NEWS. Election of Officers .- At the last stated meeting of Manchester Lodge, No. 14, A. F. and A. M., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: D. J. Weisiger, W. M.; H. W. Bransford, S. W.; A. Royall, J. W.; James D. Craig, treasurer; James B. Vaiden, secretary; S. C. Dyer, S. D.; T.

B. Sims, J. D. Trustees: A. A. Allen, Dr. W. R. Weisiger, and John H. Hatcher. Improvement Contemplated .- Messrs. H. J. Nunnally & Sons design erecting a large three-story brick building at the corner of Eighth and Hull streets. When completed the first story will probably be occupied by the Manchester bank, the second story will be fitted up and used as a public hall, and the third story will be designed for a lodgeroom. The building will not only be an ornament to the city, but will supply a long felt want—i. e., a public hall.
